Adjectives

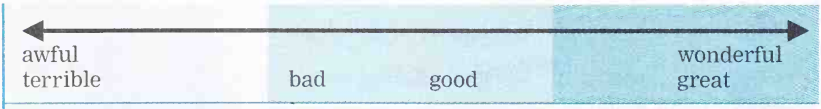
Order of adjectives

When you put more than one adjective together, the order of the adjectives is important.

The order of the adjectives is usually like this:

1 opinion (= what you think about something)
2 size
3 age
4 shape
5 colour
6 origin (= where something comes from)
7 material (= what something is made of)
8 purpose (= what something is used for)

long, curly hair



1 Put the adjectives in the correct order in these phrases:

1 a black old big cat
2 a Nigerian large drum
3 a dirty ski old jacket
4 a leather beautiful briefcase

We do not usually put more than three adjectives together.
Here are some other ways of adding more information:

- She had a shiny, red sports car, which was brand-new.
- A long, flowing wedding dress, made of silk.

Gradable and limit adjectives

The adjectives in the middle of the diagram are called 'gradable' adjectives – they give a general description of something. We can use very with this type of adjective: very/good/bad

The adjectives at the ends of the diagram are called 'limit' adjectives – they express an extreme description of something. We can use absolutely with this type of adjective: absolutely wonderful

2 Which of these words are limit adjectives and which are gradable adjectives? Use the dictionary to match each limit adjective with a gradable adjective.

tiny	starving	exhausted	hot	interesting
small	boiling	hungry	tired	fascinating

Checking your work

There are many ways that this dictionary can help you avoid common mistakes.

Common Learner Error notes

Words which often cause difficulty for learners of English have special common learner error notes explaining how to use them correctly.

1 Correct the following sentences by looking at the usage notes:

1 The new rule affects to everyone.
2 What hour is it?
3 It's quiet hot in here.
4 He did an interesting speech.

Grammar

Always check the grammar of the words you want to use. There is an explanation of all the grammar codes on p.8, and the Study sections on Countable and uncountable nouns and Verb patterns will help you too.

Using the right words

Look carefully at the example sentences, which will show you typical ways of using words. When a word is used with another word extremely often, they are shown in dark type.

2 Fill in the gaps in these sentences by looking at examples at the entry for the underlined word:

1 You must ___ your homework before you go out.
2 Shall we ___ a taxi to the station?
3 He has no chance ___ getting there on time.
4 I'm ___ rather ill this morning.

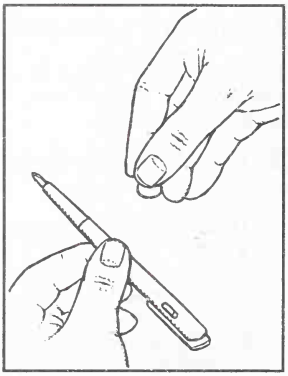
3 There are 10 mistakes in this essay. Can you find them and correct them?

My name is Dida and I'm Italian.
I am 22 year old. When I left the university, my father suggested me to go to London for one year to study english.

When I arrived everything fell very strange. The weather was very cold. In Italy I was used to go out without a coat. I have good accommodations and I have made many new friends. I am studying hard, but I still do many mistakes. When I finish my course here I will go back to Italy to find a work.

Classroom language



Asking about words

What does 'fierce' mean?
How do you say ___ in English?
How do you spell 'castle'?
How do you pronounce this word?
What's the past tense/past participle of 'lie'?
Can you give me an example?
Could you say that again, please?

Asking about activities

I'm sorry, I don't understand what we have to do.
Can you repeat the instructions please?
Could you repeat that, please?
Could you speak more slowly, please?
Could I borrow a pen/pencil, etc, please?
Can you lend me a pen/pencil, please?
How long do we have to do this?

Classroom instructions

Open your books at page 40.
Turn to page 6.
Close your books.
Work in pairs/groups of three, four etc.
Listen to the tape, then try to answer the questions.
Write the answers on a piece of paper.
Work with your partner.
Look up these words in your dictionary.
No talking, please.
Hand in your homework as you leave.

Collocations

Collocations are words that are frequently used together. These word combinations are often difficult to guess, so you need to learn them in order to sound natural in English. Important collocations are included in the example sentences in this dictionary.

Verbs and nouns

Some examples of common verb + noun collocations:

make friends	take a photo	make a speech	play the piano
make a noise	surf the Web	have fun	write a letter

1 Match the verbs on the left with the nouns on the right. Use your dictionary to help you if you need to.

1 make	4 watch	a a question	d a mistake
2 tell	5 ask	b a train	e a joke
3 catch		c TV

Adjectives and nouns

Some examples of common adjective + noun collocations:

a great success	a narrow escape	heavy traffic	fresh fruit
broad shoulders	a serious illness	a steep hill	a sunny day

2 Fill in the gaps with a suitable adjective:

1 I used to be a ___ smoker.
2 He has a ___ Scottish accent.
3 She was late, but at least she had a ___ excuse.
4 The plane could not take off because of ___ cloud.

Prepositions

3 Complete the following sentences by adding the missing preposition:

1 I'm worried ___ Jane. She's usually home by now.
2 You have to apply ___ a visa before you go.
3 Can you describe the man ___ me?
4 That girl over there keeps smiling ___ me.

Countable and uncountable nouns

Nouns can be countable or uncountable.

Countable nouns can have a/an or the before them and can be used both in the singular and the plural:

▶ There's a plate, three spoons and a cup on the table.

Uncountable nouns cannot have a/an before them and cannot be used in the plural:

▶ The furniture in the accommodation was ugly but practical. They gave us some money to buy more.

In this dictionary, countable nouns have the symbol [C], and uncountable nouns have the symbol [U].

1 Are these sentences correct? Look up the noun that is underlined.

1 We get a lot of English homeworks.
2 I've got some sands in my shoe.
3 They bought some new equipment.
4 I was angry about their behaviours.
5 Can I have some more pasta?
6 She carried my luggages to the taxi.

2 Some of these sentences need 'a' or 'an' in the gaps. Put them in where they are necessary.

1 Why are you taking ___ umbrella? It's not raining.
2 I had ___ soup and ___ bread roll for lunch.
3 It was ___ good idea to have a party.
4 She's looking for ___ work in Madrid.
5 I often go to her for ___ advice.

Some and any

You can use some and any with plural countable nouns:

▶ There are some cakes left. Are there any biscuits?

You can use some and any with uncountable nouns:

▶ I'd like some sugar in my coffee. Is there any water in the jug?

3 Fill in the gaps with a noun from the box:

chair	suitcase	fly	rice	furniture
day	weather	accidents	luggage

1 There's a ___ in my soup.
2 I have to buy some ___ for my new house.
3 I haven't got much ___ with me. Just this bag.
4 It's a sunny ___ today.
5 There weren't any ___ on the roads yesterday.

Much, many, a lot of, a few

You can use many and a few with plural countable nouns:
- Did you take many photographs?
- I've got a few friends who live in London.

You can use much with uncountable nouns:
- I haven't got much news to tell you.

You can use a lot of with both plural countable nouns and with uncountable nouns:
- Did you take a lot of photographs?
- I haven't got a lot of news to tell you.

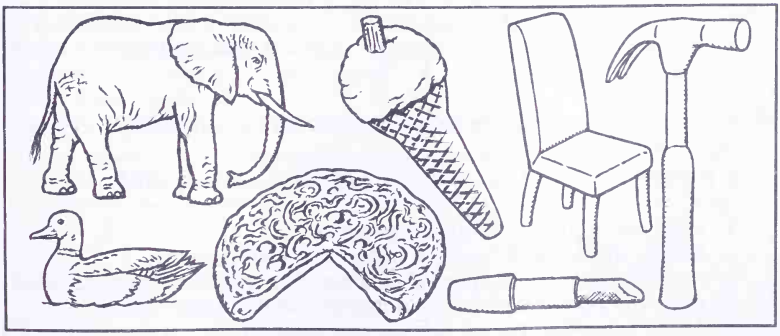
4 Which of the underlined words in parts of these sentences is right? Put a circle around the correct part.

1 Hurry up! We haven't got many/a lot of time.
2 I don't eat much/many chocolate.
3 I didn't take much/many photographs.
4 I don't listen to much/many classical music.



Nouns which can be both countable and uncountable

Some nouns can be used both countably and uncountably:
- a fish/fish, a glass/glass, a hair/hair, a chocolate/chocolate

When we use these nouns countably we refer to particular things:
- There are some glasses on the table.
- I caught a fish at the lake.

When we use these nouns uncountably we refer to the thing in general:
- Careful. There's broken glass on the floor.
- I'd like fish and chips for dinner.

5 Look at the items below. How many of them can be used both countably and uncountably?

Family

1 Find a word in the diagram above that fits each definition:

1 the child of your aunt or uncle
2 the mother of your mother or father
3 the brother of your mother or father, or the husband of your aunt
4 the woman married to your brother, or the sister of your husband or wife
5 the son of your brother or sister, or the son of your husband's or wife's brother or sister

2 Choose a word from the box below to match each definition:

partner	boyfriend	stepfather	half-sister	an only child

1 someone who has no brothers or sisters
2 a sister who is the daughter of only one of your parents
3 someone that you are married to or having a sexual relationship with 4 the man who is married to your mother but is not your father
5 a man or boy that you have a romantic relationship with

Food and eating

Here are some sentences that you might say or hear when you go to a restaurant:

- Are you ready to order?
- Could we have the bill, please?
- Do you take credit cards?
- Is the service charge included?
- Smoking or non-smoking?

1 Use the sentences to fill the gaps in the conversation below:

Before the meal

HARRY: A table for two, please.
WAITER: ___?
HARRY: Non-smoking, please.
WAITER: Come this way. I'll get you some menus.

(Five minutes later.)
WAITER: ___?
SYLVIA: Yes, I'd like the duck please.
HARRY: I'll have the pasta.
SYLVIA: And could we have a bottle of red wine, please?
WAITER: Certainly.

After the meal

WAITER: Would you like any desserts or coffees?
SYLVIA: No, thank you. ___?
WAITER: Certainly. Was everything okay with your meal?
SYLVIA: Yes, it was delicious.
WAITER: Here's your bill.
HARRY: Thank you. ___?
WAITER: Yes we do.
HARRY: ___?
WAITER: No
HARRY: OK, I'll leave the tip separately.

Giving praise for food

- This is delicious.
- It's great.
- The sauce is lovely.

Complaining about food

- This food is cold.
- The meat isn't cooked in the middle.
- It's a bit too salty/sweet for me.

Other things you might ask for

- Could we have some water, please?
- Could we have some more bread, please?
- I'd like to see the wine list.
- Do you do children's portions?

Idioms

Idioms are groups of words that have a meaning which is different from the usual meanings of the words in them. It is often impossible to guess what they mean. They are used in all types of language, but especially in informal situations. Idioms often have a stronger meaning than ordinary words. For example, 'be at loggerheads with someone' has more emphasis than 'be arguing with someone', but they mean the same thing.

Finding idioms in this dictionary

Most idioms are found at the entry for the first noun in the idiom. (A noun is a word that is the name of a thing, person, or place.)

1 Underline the first noun in each idiom on the left. Then match each idiom with its meaning on the right.

1 be up to your neck in sth	a try to do something you cannot achieve
2 the final nail in the coffin	b be very busy
3 fight a losing battle	c have nothing to do
4 be at a loose end	d not laugh
5 keep a straight face	e something that causes failure

If the idiom does not contain a noun, try the first verb (word for doing things) or adjective (word for describing things). But don't worry if you do not know where to look for an idiom. If you look in the wrong place, you will find an arrow telling you where to go.

breathe /briːð/ verb [I, T] to take air into and out of your lungs breathe in/out • breathe deeply • Doctors gave him oxygen to help him breathe. ➲ See also: be breathing down sb's neck, not breathe a word[1].

2 The following sentences all use idioms that contain a part of the body. Choose a body part from the box below to complete each sentence.

head	face	arm	leg	ear

1 The accident was clearly his fault – he doesn't have a ___ to stand on.
2 Most of her lecture went over my ___.
3 Dad might lend you his camera if you twist his ___.
4 I've never taught this class before, so I'll have to play it by ___.
5 When I saw his hat, I could hardly keep a straight ___.

The Internet

What is the Internet?

The Internet is the system that connects millions of computers all over the world. To go online (= connect your computer to the Internet) you need a computer with a modem.

What is a modem?

A modem is a piece of equipment that sends information along telephone lines.

Is the Internet the same as the World Wide Web?

The World Wide Web (www) is part of the Internet. It is a system of electronic documents called websites that are linked together.

How can I move around quickly on the www?

You can use your mouse to click on links (= connections between the documents or areas on the Internet) to go to a different website, or to move from one part of a website to another. You could also use a WAP phone, which is a telephone with a small screen which you can carry around and which allows you to use the Internet.

What kind of information is there on a website?

Websites can contain almost any kind of information, such as text, pictures, or sound. Usually they consist of a series of web pages. The main page on a website is called the home page.

How do I find the website I want?

If you know the web address you can type it in at the top of the screen. Otherwise, you can use a search engine (= software which searches for information) to surf the Web.

What does surf the Web mean?

It means 'look at information in a lot of different places, either because you are not sure what you are looking for, or in order to find something'.

What can I do with the information when I find it?

You can read text or print it out. If there is music you can listen to it. For games or other activities you can sometimes download software (= copy computer programs to your computer).

1 Match the words on the left with the meanings on the right:

1	browser	a	a connection between documents or areas on the Internet
2	web page	b	the first page that you see when you look at a website
3	home page	c	a piece of equipment that is used to send information from a computer through a telephone system
4	modem	d	a computer program which allows you to look at pages on the Internet
5	download	e	a part of a website that can be read on a computer screen
6	link/hyperlink	f	to copy computer programs or information electronically

Email

Email addresses usually look like this: djones@hotmail.com

When we tell someone an email address we say: 'D Jones at hotmail dot com'.

Writing emails

- write the email address of the person you are writing to
 To: djones@hotmail.com
- your email address
 From: pgreen@pippin.org
- a few words to say what the email is about Subject: party
- the email address of anyone you want to copy the message to
 Cc: andy@sedgwick.co.uk
- attach other computer files which you are sending with the email
 Attached: H:\Reunion\addresses

Emails are usually shorter and more informal than letters and people sometimes use abbreviations and 'smileys' in them. Smileys (also called emoticons) are images which look like faces when you see them from the side. They are made using keyboard symbols and are used to express emotions.

Abbreviations		Smileys

Measurements

Metric and imperial measurements

The international system of metric units of measurement is not used in the US. It is used in Britain, but many people still use the older system of imperial units such as pounds, feet, and gallons.

Some units have the same name but mean different amounts in Britain and the US.

IMPERIAL	METRIC
1 inch (in)	2.5 centimetres (cm)
1 foot (ft)	30 centimetres (100 cm = 1 metre (m))
1 yard (yd)	90 centimetres
5 miles (m)	8 kilometres (km)

IMPERIAL	METRIC
1 ounce (oz)	28 gram (g)
1 pound (lb)	450 gram
1 pint	UK 0.6 litres US 0.5 litres
1 gallon	UK 4.5 litres US 3.8 litres

Saying how tall you are

Most people in Britain and the US say their height in imperial units.

- I'm six feet tall.
- I'm five foot seven. (Often written 5' 7".)

Saying how much you weigh

In Britain, people usually say their weight in stones and pounds. There are fourteen pounds in a stone.

- I weigh nine stone three. (Note that you do not have to say 'pounds'.)
- I weigh seven and a half stone.

In the US, people usually say their weight in pounds.

- I weigh 160 pounds.

Talking about measurements

We normally use adjectives to talk or ask about measurements:

- The box is 30cm long.
- How tall is David?

We can also use nouns, but they are more formal:

- The length of the box is 30cm.
- What is David's height?

height deep length width depth high long wide

1 Look at the words in the box. Decide which are adjectives and which are nouns. Use them to complete the table below.

	QUESTION	ANSWER	FORMAL
1	How wide is it?	It's 5m ___.	The ___ of the x is 5m.
2	How ___ is it?	It's 50m long.	The length of the x is 50m.
3	How deep is it?	It's 10m deep.	The ___ of the x is 10m.
4	How ___ is it?	It's 70m ___.	The height of the x is 70m.

The media

TV and radio

1 Match the programme types on the left with their definitions on the right:

1 documentary	a a programme in which people play games in order to win money or prizes
2 soap or soap opera	b a film made using characters that are drawn rather than real
3 game show	c a programme that gives facts about a real situation or real people
4 cartoon	d the announcement of important events that have happened in the world
5 the news	e a programme about the lives of a group of people that is broadcast several times every week

2 Look at the information on the list of TV programmes. What kind of programmes can you watch tonight? Use words from exercise 1.

1 At 7.00 there's a ___ .
2 At 7.30 there's a ___ .
3 At 8.00 there's a ___ .
4 At 8.30 it's the ___ .

Tonight's TV

Channel 1

Modal verbs

Here are some of the uses and meanings of modal verbs.
For a more detailed description, use a good grammar book.

Here are the main modal verbs of English:

can could may might must ought shall will would

We also use need and have to as modal verbs.

Same word, different use

Each modal verb has more than one use. For example, look at these two sentences with can. The use is explained in brackets.

- I can swim. (ability)
- Can you carry this bag for me?* (request)

1 The dictionary helps you decide which meaning of the verb is used. Look at the modal verb 'can'. How many meanings can you find?

Expressing instructions, advice, permission, and necessity to give instructions or to say that something is necessary

- You must wear a helmet when riding a bike.
- You mustn't smoke in here.
- I have to be at the dentist at 3 o'clock.
- You needn't shut the door.

to give advice or to express a strong opinion

- You should/ought to go to bed if you're tired.
- She shouldn't worry about me.

to give and ask for permission

- She can borrow my dress.
- Can/May/Could I open the window?*

2 Match the sentences on the left with the use on the right:

1 You can borrow my camera if you like.	a instructions
2 If you feel very ill you should go to the doctor.	b permission
3 You must lock the door.	c necessary
4 You don't need to bring food – just something to drink.	d advice
5 I need to make a phone call before I go out.	e not necessary

Expressing degrees of certainty

In the speaker's opinion, John has the car:
► The car's not here – John must have taken it.

The speaker thinks this is Clare's sister but is not sure:
► She might/could be Clare's sister. She looks very like her.

The speaker thinks this is not possible:
► She can't be his mother – she's younger than me.

The speaker is sure she will do it:
► If she's promised to do it she 'll do it.

The speaker is not sure if it will rain:
► It might/could rain. It's getting cloudy.

3 Fill in the gaps in these sentences with a word from the list on the right:

1 He ___ be a hairdresser. His hair's a mess.
2 'Do you think Joanna will call?'
'Who knows? She ___ do.'
3 She ___ ever come back – I know she won't.
4 Her hair's all wet – it ___ be raining.
5 'It's 1–1 and there are five minutes to play.
We ___ still win.'

a may b won't c must d can't e might

Forming modal verbs

Modal verbs are very different from other verbs of English:

The forms of the verbs do not change, for example there is no -s in the third person of the present tense.
► I can speak Spanish and she can speak Portuguese.

They are always followed by a main verb and cannot be used as a main verb by themselves.
► I must make a phone call. / We won't wait for you.

They do not use do and did to form questions, negatives, and short answers.
► 'He wouldn't steal anything, would he?' 'Oh yes he would.'

MODAL VERB	SHORT FORM	NEGATIVE	SHORT FORM
can		cannot	can't
could		could not	couldn't
may		may not
might		might not	mightn't
must		must not	mustn't
ought to		ought not to	oughtn't to
shall		shall not	shan't
will	'll	will not	won't
would	'd	would not	wouldn't

Numbers

Saying numbers

Don't forget to say 'and' after hundreds:

- 569 five hundred and sixty nine
- 7,892 seven thousand, eight hundred and ninety two
- 4,680,022 four million, six hundred and eighty thousand and twenty two

Parts of numbers: decimals and fractions

For decimals we say each number separately after the point (.)

- 2.5 two point five
- 3.65 three point six five
- 22.33 twenty two point three three

For fractions we say:

- 2¼ two and a quarter
- ⅕ one fifth
- 5¾ five and three quarters

Remember we use ordinal numbers for most fractions but not for ½, ¼, ¾

- ⅜ three eighths
- ⅓ a third or one third
- 1/12 a twelfth or one twelfth

Percentages and other symbols

Here are some other symbols used with numbers:

%	percent	45%	forty five percent
°	degree	22°C 70°F	twenty two degrees Celsius seventy degrees Fahrenheit
+	addition	6 + 2 = 8	six plus two is/equals eight
−	subtraction	6 − 2 = 4	six minus two is/equals four
×	multiplication	6 × 3 = 18	six times three/six multiplied by three is/equals eighteen
÷	division	24 ÷ 4 = 6	twenty four divided by four is/equals six

Saying 0

'0' can be said in different ways. It is usually said as 'oh' or 'zero' ('zero' is especially used in American English). Here are some ways of saying '0':

MATHS: 0.65 UK: nought point six five, US: zero point six five
FOOTBALL: 6–0 UK: six nil, US: six to zero
TENNIS: 15–0 fifteen love
TELEPHONE NUMBER: 965703 nine six five seven oh three
(also US English seven zero three)

Phrasal verbs

What are phrasal verbs?

A phrasal verb is a verb followed by one or two adverbs or prepositions. Here are some examples:

get up break down look after run out look forward to

It is usually impossible to guess the meaning of phrasal verbs just from knowing the meaning of the verb and the adverb or preposition. For example, 'give up something' means to stop doing or using something. It has nothing to do with giving things.

Finding phrasal verbs

In this dictionary, phrasal verbs follow the entry for the main verb, and are in alphabetical order. For instance, the phrasal verb 'lose out' comes after all the meanings of the verb 'lose'.

Many verbs are part of several phrasal verbs. The phrasal verbs are shown in alphabetical order after the main verb.

1 How many phrasal verbs can you find in the dictionary formed with the following verbs?

1 drag 2 hand 3 pack 4 make

2 Use the dictionary to help you fill in the gaps in the sentences below to make phrasal verbs.

1 If you carry ___ spending like that you'll have no money left.
2 I nodded ___ after lunch.
3 The brakes suddenly seized ___.
4 It took him a long time to get ___ her death.

Of course, verbs are often used with their normal meanings with adverbs and prepositions too, e.g.:

- I went into the room.
- He put the book on the shelf.

These are not phrasal verbs. They are just the normal meanings explained at the entries for the verbs, adverbs, and prepositions.

Phrasal verbs with more than one meaning

One phrasal verb can have more than one meaning. Often, the meanings are not related:

- Just pick up the phone and ring her!
- She picks up languages really easily.

3 Write two sentences for each of these phrasal verbs, using different meanings for each sentence:

turn out catch on come under sth fall apart

The grammar of phrasal verbs

Some phrasal verbs have objects, some do not, and some sometimes have objects and sometimes do not. This is shown in the way the phrasal verb is written in the dictionary. The way the phrasal verb is written also shows you whether the object is a person, a thing, or an action.

Phrasal verbs that do not need an object are shown like this:

check in ► You need to check in three hours before the flight.
drift off ► The room was so hot I could feel myself beginning to drift off.

Phrasal verbs that need an object are shown like this:

pack sth in ► I packed in my job to go travelling.
pack sb off ► They packed him off to school in Paris.

Note that sth means 'something', and sb means 'someone'.

Phrasal verbs where an object is sometimes used and sometimes not used are shown like this:

pack (sth) up ► I packed up all my belongings and left the house.
► Could you help me pack up?

Prepositions following phrasal verbs

Many phrasal verbs are often followed by particular prepositions. These are shown in bold letters in the dictionary.
► He dressed up as a ghost.

4 Fill in the gaps in these sentences with the correct prepositions.

1 She stood in ___ her boss while he was sick.
2 Just carry on ___ your work.
3 She looked back ___ her days as a student with nostalgia.
4 He's always going on ___ his car.
5 We will have to cut back ___ our spending.

Pronunciation

Pronouncing words in English can be very difficult. Often, words are not written the way they are pronounced. The phonetic symbols after each word in the dictionary show you how to say each word. There is an explanation of all these symbols inside the back cover, and more information about the pronunciation system on page 11.

Some of the symbols are pronounced in the same way as the letter they look like, e.g. /b/ sounds like 'b' in 'bad'. All the others are explained at the bottom of every page in the dictionary.

1 Look at these words and match them with their pronunciations.

1 cough	a /'sɪnəmə/
2 throw	b /θruː/
3 through	c /sɪŋ/
4 cup	d /kɒf/
5 cinema	e /θrəʊ/
6 sing	f /kʌp/

2 All these words are names of animals. Write the name of the animal next to the phonetic symbols.

1 /məʊl/	3 /hɔːs/	5 /laɪən/
2 /dʒɪ'rɑːf/	4 /ʃiːp/	6 /tʃɪmp/

Silent letters

Many words in English contain letters that are not pronounced, for example the 't' in 'listen' /lɪsn/.

3 Which is the silent letter in each of these words?

1 know	3 island	5 two
2 honest	4 wrong	6 talk

Word stress

In English, it is very important to put the stress on the right part of the word. The symbol / ' / shows you where to put the main stress. (Some words have another, less important stress too.)

purple /'pɜːpl/ important /ɪm'pɔːtənt/ difficult /'dɪfɪkəlt/

4 Put a circle around the part of each word that has the main stress.

1 brother	3 photographer	5 computer
2 education	4 below	6 necessary

	■ to show that a word has been divided and continues on the next line	Everyone in the room was horri-fied by the news.
dash	■ to separate parts of sentences	The car – the one with the broken window – was parked outside our house.
quotation marks/UK also inverted commas	■ to show that words are spoken	'I'm tired,' she said. 'Let's go,' he suggested.
	■ to show that someone else originally wrote the words	She had described the school as 'not attracting the best pupils'.

Spelling

Because of its history, the English language does not have simple spelling rules. Often words are not written exactly as they sound, so it is important to check the spelling of any new word and to copy it down correctly.

Top 10 learner spelling errors

(taken from the Cambridge Learner Corpus)

1	accommodation	double c and double m
2	sincerely	don't forget the second e
3	advertisement	don't forget the e in the middle -isement
4	which	don't forget the silent h
5	because	remember au after the c
6	beginning	remember nn in the middle
7	comfortable	the third letter is m, not 'n'
8	successful	double c, double s, but only one l
9	embarrassing	double r and double s
10	receive	remember ei after the c

Which words do you make the most mistakes with?
Why not make a list which you can use to check your written work?

Regular inflections

There are many rules you can learn which will help a lot with your spelling. Look at page 12, which explains the rules for regular inflections (e.g. plurals, past tenses).

1 Write the plural of these nouns.

1 house 2 watch 3 brick 4 minute 5 fax 6 loss

Word beginnings

Even the first letter of a word can sometimes be difficult to guess.

c Some words beginning with c sound as though they begin with s, ▶ cell, centre, circle

ps Words beginning with ps sound as though they start with s, ▶ pseudonym, psychiatrist

ph Words beginning with ph sound as though they start with f, ▶ philosophy, phone, physical

Same or similar sound, different spelling

Some words in English have the same or very similar sounds, but are spelled differently.

2 Choose the correct word from the pair on the right to fill in the gaps.

1	I don't know ___ he will come.	weather/whether
2	It's ___ a long way to my brother's house.	quite/quiet
3	___ of these pictures do you like best?	which/witch
4	They didn't have ___ coats with them.	their/there
5	We stayed in a cottage by the ___.	see/sea

Doubling consonants

Some adjectives have a double consonant at the end when they make the comparative form with -er and the superlative form with -est. When this happens, it is clearly shown in the entry for those adjectives.

> sad /sæd/ adj sadder, saddest
> 1 [NOT HAPPY] unhappy or making you feel unhappy I was very sad when our cat died. • a sad book/movie • [+ that] It's a bit sad that you'll miss our wedding. • [+ to do sth] I was sad to see him go.

Some verbs have a double consonant when they make the present participle or the past tense and past participle. This is also shown clearly in the entry for those verbs.

> pop[1] /pɒp/ verb popping, past popped
> 1 [I, T] to make a short sound like a small explosion, or to make something do this by breaking it The music played and champagne corks popped.

A lot of verbs ending in l (e.g. travel, level) have a double consonant in UK English, and a single consonant in US English. This is also shown in the entry for those verbs.

3 Fill in the gaps in the sentences below with the correct inflection of the word on the right. Be careful not to double the consonant where it is not correct to do so.

1	It's usually ___ than this in the summer.	(hot)
2	The use of mobile phones is ___ on aircraft.	(ban)
3	The concert was the ___ I've ever been to.	(loud)
4	I'm ___ to find my way around the city.	(begin)
5	I'm tired of ___ ten hours a day.	(work)

British and American children learn this rhyme to help them with their spelling:

'I before E, except after C.'

▶ friend, receive

Transport and travel

Talking about travelling

At the airport

Chris is going to Berlin by plane. His parents take him to the airport terminal. They go to the departure area and find the check-in desk for his flight. He shows his ticket and passport and checks in his luggage. He gets his boarding card which he needs to board the plane.

He says goodbye to his parents and goes through passport control into the departure lounge. His flight is leaving from gate 7. He has an hour until take-off. That's just enough time to look around the duty-free shops. His flight is called over the loudspeaker, "Flight BA134 departing for Berlin is now ready for boarding. Would passengers please board at gate 7." The plane touches down on time. He gets his luggage from the baggage collection point and goes through customs. His friend is waiting for him in the arrivals hall.

UK and US English

Although English in the UK and the US is very similar, there are a lot of differences in vocabulary, spelling, grammar, and pronunciation.

This dictionary shows you when there are differences.
For a full explanation of the UK and US labels, see page 10.

Vocabulary

Many common words for items we see or use every day are different in UK and US English.

1 The words on the left are UK English. Match each one with a US word from the list on the right.

1 aubergine	4 windscreen	a elevator	d eggplant
2 wardrobe	5 queue	b truck	e closet
3 lift	6 lorry	c windshield	f line

In informal language there are lots of differences between UK and US English.

2 The underlined word in each sentence is used in UK English only. Replace it with a word from the list on the right which would be understood in both UK and US English.

1 I got it from a bloke at work.	a complaining
2 I'm feeling rather poorly today.	b man
3 I wish he'd stop whingeing and do some work.	c weak
4 I was gutted when I heard I hadn't got the job.	d disappointed
5 My brother's too weedy to climb that tree.	e ill

Spelling

3 Look at these pairs of words. Which is the UK spelling and which is the US spelling?

1 labour/labor	3 offence/offense	5 metre/meter
2 center/centre	4 color/colour	6 traveller/traveler

Pronunciation

In this dictionary, words which are pronounced very differently in UK and US English have both pronunciations shown at the word. The US pronunciation follows the symbol (US).

4 Which of these words have different pronunciations in UK and US English?

1 peach	4 ballet
2 schedule	5 zebra
3 colour	6 bicycle

tomato /tə'mɑːtəʊ (US) tə'meɪtəʊ/ noun [C, U] plural tomatoes a soft, round, red fruit eaten in salad or as a vegetable ➲ See colour picture Fruit and Vegetables on page Centre 8.

Verb patterns

Some verbs must have something (an object) after them:
- ▶ She put the cup on the table.
- ▶ Did you bring any money?

These verbs are 'transitive' verbs. They are marked in the dictionary with a [T].

Other verbs don't need anything after them:
- ▶ He fell.
- ▶ They don't want to stay.

These verbs are 'intransitive' verbs. They are marked in the dictionary with an [I].

Some verbs can be both transitive and intransitive:
- ▶ Did you see the moon last night? [T]
- ▶ Did you pay the bill? [T]
- ▶ Can you move, please? I can't see. [I]
- ▶ Have you paid? [I]

1 Look up these verbs in the dictionary to find out if they are transitive or intransitive or both.

1	like	3	drive	5	tell	7	hate	9	fall
2	hear	4	smoke	6	explain	8	play	10	hit

Sometimes a verb has to be followed by other grammar words or grammar patterns, for example a preposition, an infinitive verb, or a verb ending '-ing':

	I apologized to her.
[+to do sth]	I promise to help you.
[+ doing sth]	Have you finished reading the newspaper?
[+ to do sth]	She asked us to talk quietly.
[+ (that)]	He told me (that) it was safe.

If you are not sure what type of grammar to use after a verb, look up the word in the dictionary. There is a full explanation of all the grammar codes on page 8.

2 Can you describe what follows these verbs? Match the underlined parts on the left with a description from the list on the right.

1	He's always complaining that nobody listens to him	a	+ to do sth
2	Did she say where she was going?	b	+ two objects
3	He doesn't like watching TV.	c	+ that
4	They want to go shopping.	d	+ doing sth
5	He brought me some flowers.	e	+ question word

3 Write a sentence using each of these verbs and the patterns that are shown in the following grammar codes.

1	forget	+ [that]	4	start	+ to do sth
2	tell	+ question word	5	sell	+ two objects
3	like	+ doing sth

Word Formation

Here are some ways of building words in English.

Prefixes

Prefixes are added to the beginning of words to change their meaning. There is a list of common prefixes on page 751.

Here are some common prefixes that are used before adjectives to give opposite and often negative meanings:

dis-	dissimilar
il-	illegal
im-	impossible
in-	inexpensive
ir-	irregular
un-	unhappy

When you learn a new adjective try to find out if its opposite is formed with a prefix and write down the two words together, e.g. happy ≠ unhappy.

The prefixes un- and dis- combine with verbs to form the opposite of the action of the verb.

- ► She appeared from behind a door.
- ► He disappeared through the window.
- ► I covered the food with a cloth.
- ► They brushed away the dirt to uncover a box.

1 Match the prefixes on the left to the adjectives and verbs on the right to make new words.

1 un-	4 im-	lock	legal
2 dis-	5 ir-	responsible	agree
3 il-		possible

2 Now use the words you have made to fill in the gaps in the sentences below.

1 Which key do I need to ___ this door?
2 The tide is so strong it's ___ to swim against it.
3 It is ___ to drive without a licence.
4 I ___ with her views on immigration.
5 Leaving the children alone was a very ___ thing to do.

3 There are many other prefixes used in English. Match the prefix on the left with the meaning on the right. Then form new words by choosing a suitable word from the box to combine with each prefix.

1 multi-	a half
2 semi-	b in favour of
3 anti-	c former (not now)
4 pro-	d not enough
5 ex-	e many
6 post-	f against
7 over-	g after
8 under-	h too much

president	war
cooked	racial
graduate	worked
circle	democracy

Suffixes

Suffixes are used at the ends of words. Here are some common ones:

-er -or	■ for people who do activities and for things that have a particular function	worker, swimmer, golfer, driver, actor, sailor, conductor tin opener, screwdriver, hanger, projector
-ist	■ for people with certain beliefs ■ who play musical instruments ■ for some professions	Buddhist, socialist violinist, pianist, guitarist journalist, pharmacist, artist
-ness	to make nouns from adjectives	happiness, sadness, rudeness
-(t)ion	to make nouns from verbs	education, television, pollution
-ment	to make nouns from verbs	improvement, government

Note: Adding a suffix to a word sometimes changes its pronunciation. Look at how the stress changes in these words:

photograph → photographer educate → education

Noun, verb, adjective?

Most suffixes can tell you whether a word is a noun, adjective or verb. This table shows some common ones:

adjectives	-able, -al, -ful, -ible, -ive, -less, -ous, -y	washable, natural, beautiful, flexible, active, helpless, adventurous, happy
nouns	-ance, -(t)ion, -ence, -hood, -ity, -ment, -ness, -ship	performance, reduction, independence, parenthood, similarity, enjoyment, politeness, friendship
verb	-en, -ify, -ize	harden, solidify, modernize

Note: -al can be used to make nouns, e.g. arrival and adjectives, e.g. comical

4 Use suffixes to change the following adjectives and verbs into nouns.

1 rude
2 create
3 prefer
4 ignorant
5 hilarious
6 develop

Dear Ms Perry (1)

I am (3) writing to enquire about (2) the possibility of holiday work with your company this summer. I am very interested in gaining some experience working for a newspaper.

For the last two years I have been editor of the student magazine at my school. Next year I am planning to do a one-year course in newspaper journalism.

I have good computer skills and accurate written English.

I very much hope you have a vacancy for me. I enclose a copy of my CV and look forward to hearing from you soon. (4)

Yours sincerely, (1)

Anna Thompson

(1) If you know the name of the person you are writing to, but the letter is formal, end the letter: Yours sincerely.

If you do not know the name of the person you are writing to, begin the letter: Dear Sir/Madam and end it: Yours faithfully.

20 January 2004

Dear Julia,

It was lovely to chat to you the other day. (1) It seems ages since we last met. We're so excited that you're finally coming over to see us. In fact, John's going to take those two weeks off work so he can spend more time with us.

By the way, could you bring some photos of your family? I'd love to see them.

We're both really looking forward to seeing you. (2)

Love, (3)
Anna

(1) Other ways of starting an informal letter:
- Thanks for your letter.
- How are you?
- I hope you're well.
- Sorry it's been so long since I last wrote.
- It was lovely to hear from you.

(2) Other ways of ending an informal letter:
- Drop me a line soon.
- Write soon.
- Take care.
- Do keep in touch.
- Give my love to Paul.
- Hope to hear from you soon.

(3) Before your name, you write:

to close friends:
- love from
- all my love
- lots of love

to less close friends:
- best wishes
- all the best
- yours
- kind regards

3 My name is Dida and I'm Italian. I am 22 years old. When I left university, my father suggested going to London for a year to study English. When I arrived everything felt very strange. The weather was very cold. In Italy I was used to going out without a coat. I have good accommodation and I have made many new friends. I am studying hard, but I still make many mistakes. When I finish my course here I will go back to Italy to find a job.

COMMON LEARNER ERROR

used to and be used to

Used to + verb is for talking about a situation or regular activity in the past.

My dad used to smoke when he was younger.

I used to live in Italy, but now I live in England.

When you make used to + verb into a question or negative using the verb do, the correct form is use to.

My dad didn't use to smoke.

Where did you use to live?

~~Where did you used to live?~~

The expression be used to something/doing something is for talking about something which you have done or experienced a lot before.

Geographical names

This list shows the spellings and pronunciations of countries, regions, and continents. Each name is followed by its related adjective. Most of the time you can use the adjective to talk about a person who comes from each place. However, in some cases you must use a special word, which is listed in the column labelled 'Person' (for example, Finland, Finnish, Finn).

To talk about more than one person from a particular place, add 's', except for:

- words ending in 'ese' or 's', which remain the same (Chinese, Swiss)
- words ending in 'man' or 'woman', which change to 'men' and 'women' (Irishman).

This list is for reference only. Inclusion does not imply or suggest status as a sovereign nation.

Word building

It is useful to know how to build up word families using the prefixes and suffixes listed on pages 751–752, and for some exams you need to know these word families. In the list below, words in heavy type are words which have the symbol ⊶ by them in the dictionary, meaning that they are very common and important to learn. The other words on each line are words in the same family, often formed with prefixes and suffixes, or sometimes just a different part of speech (e.g. anger, which is a noun and a verb). All the words in this list have entries in the dictionary except for some beginning with 'un-', 'im-', 'in-' or 'ir-', or ending with '-ly' or '-ily', where the meaning is always regular. Sometimes words in a word family can have meanings which are quite different from others in the group, so you should always check in the dictionary if you are not sure of the meaning.
